

EUREKA GUESTHOUSES

DESCRIPTION

Eurêka estate, at Moka, in the centre of Mauritius, holds one of the best-preserved residences from the French colonial period. The main house is now turned into a museum harbouring real treasures, such as antique furniture, old photographs. In addition, the magnificent garden and waterfalls on the estate contribute to the beauty of the place.

Eureka offers three guesthouses; situated in a very quiet green corner of the garden near or in connection with the secondary house used by the present owner. It has been transformed into three additional guest houses and breakfast area.

The guesthouses are furnished with touch of the past combined with modern equipped bathroom and kitchenette. As a guesthouse, the guests are offered breakfast whereas lunch & dinner can be ordered à la carte. The right place for a Creole food treat is to have lunch under its impressive veranda or on the grass, shadowed by the century-old trees.

The restaurant in the ravine facing the river offers à la carte dinner three times a week and for the other evenings dinner can be prepared for guests to serve themselves making use of the kitchenette.

Surrounded by its magnificent garden and waterfalls the guesthouse is the ideal place for those seeking calm and quietness. It is probably not by chance that its first guests were poets and writers.

Eurêka hosts some rare endemic plants among which one can find; Bois Colophane Bâtard, Makak, Bois de Clou and Bois de Fer.
